

Arm

The Chest- in detail

just follow the instructions.... i don't really know how to explain. first draw a rectangle. then draw two small circle that will represent the shoulders.

For the breasts you wana draw two circles. this is the frontal view, by the way.

I know. It looks like a preschooler's dirty fantasy. But this is just the base. From this you can now make it take shape.

Simply try to connect the shapes with the drawing looking natural. The breasts should be formed by arcs that lead to the center of the chest. you could always separate them by drawing a thin line down the middle of the chest.

And that's how to draw the chest. Take note that the breasts shouldn't look like the character just stuck two perfectly round balloons to her chest.

The Stomach and Waist.

the stomach and waist can basically be drawn in different ways but using the same technique.

its easier to draw these by using the chest to link them. U'll se what i mean. Study the samples closely.

The body came out looking more mature. Too get a slimmer look, you simply lessen the width between the hips. Now some samples on different angles:

DRAWING TIPS

draw
natural poses,
avoid straight lines

DRAWING TIPS

Deltoid is visible even for girls!

Collarbone merges with humerus, that's why collarbone goes up

DRAWING TIPS

